Millcreek Residents Participate in Disaster Games

HERRIMAN. Last Saturday, several Millcreek residents participated in The Whole Community Disaster Simulation Game. This event is sponsored periodically by Salt Lake County and the Red Cross. Participants get a small taste of what is involved in coordinating relief efforts following a catastrophic disaster.

Each "player" was given a profile scenario, covering the spectrum from victims to relief workers. They were then divided into groups and given action instructions directing their interactions. Throughout the simulation, the instructions were updated to introduce new and unexpected situations.

Our residents learned the importance of personal and family preparedness. Some of what they took away: "Pets will most likely not be allowed in shelters, so we must plan on how to take care of family pets." "We should have extra prescriptions filled to save for disaster, and a first aid kit quickly available." "Our family needs to create and then agree upon a plan."

What can we do as citizens to prepare ourselves to be as self-sufficient as possible?

Millcreek residents Joe Hales, Tim and Rhonda Bachman, Eileen Ridgeline Grace, Mark Mumford, Kathy and David Graves, and Milcreek City Councilmember Cheri Jackson, participate in games disaster simulation.

Please don't put plastic grocery bags or other filmy plastic (like laundry bags) into your recycling bin. They jam up the sorting equipment. Wasatch Front Waste and Recycling asks you to recycle them at the grocery store!
