Assert or Lose Your Rights to Irrigation, Well, Stream or Spring Water

MILLCREEK. In a recently published story, we explained that the Utah Department of Natural Resources (DNR) was going to require residents within the boundary of the Parleys Creek Subdivision to prove any rights that they might claim in irrigation water. The requirement will actually affect more Millcreek residents and is broader than our original report.

maintain a complete and accurate record of water rights claimed by Utah citizens. That includes claims to irrigation water, as well as water in wells, springs, and streams. It does NOT include water you receive from a service connection to a public utility, like SLC Public Utilities.

The Engineer has been working on water rights in the Parleys Creek drainage and will soon be addressing those located in the Mill Creek drainage. Residents who live in those drainage areas have already or will be receiving a notice from the DNR. This notice comes in the form of a Summons that advises property owners of litigation filed by the State of Utah to determine water rights. The notice is part of a State adjudication process that involves reviewing these potential water rights, and then “cleaning up” claims on water to ensure State records are accurate. Anyone who claims they have water rights must participate if they want to keep them.

Contact the Division of Water Rights at 801-538-7240 to learn about any water rights that could be associated with your property.

For those not seeking any claims, no action is needed. (Remember, water service connections to a public utility are not affected).

Residents will receive mailings including detailed instructions on how and when to file a water rights claim. A response is only necessary if you wish to assert or maintain water rights.

For more about the adjudication process, click here or contact Assistant State Engineer Blake Bingham at 801-538-7345.

"The water rights adjudication process helps to bring order and certainty to the water rights record throughout the state by defining existing rights, quantifying unknown rights, and removing unused and abandoned rights from the record through judicial decree."

CALLING ALL VISIONARIES

MILLCREEK. While you likely saw many of us and our consultant team at one of the many community events over the last few months asking for your input on the future of Millcreek, we have been hard at work behind the scenes. We have utilized your input and ideas to develop a draft set of vision statements to describe the desired future for Millcreek. Here are the next steps for continuing to be a part of the conversation:

- Attend one of four community visioning open houses (see below) to help us refine the vision for Millcreek and propose your ideas for how we achieve the vision.

- Visit www.millcreekgeneralplan.com for more information and to participate in our next online survey (launching November 1st).
- Connect with us on Social Media using the #planmillcreek hashtag to participate, and check out our Selfie Spot Contest (see below)

What is your vision for the future of Millcreek? Millcreek, in collaboration with the Community Councils, invites you to stop by a community open house to join the conversation. Provide your input on the community's vision and identify opportunities that help us achieve the vision. An opportunity to participate online will be available on November 1st.

Mt. Olympus Improvement District Day

MILLCREEK. This week, the City Council proclaimed October 23, 2017 to be known "today and forever more" as MT. OLYMPUS IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT DAY. Upon incorporation, we had no funding and no place for our meetings and initial office space needs. For nine-plus months, MTOID graciously provided space to us without rent or other remuneration. The staff not only tolerated, but welcomed us, and even filled in for us from time to time.

We and all citizens of Millcreek are extremely grateful for the "generosity, assistance, and tolerance of the Board of Trustees, Management Staff, and all Staff" of the District. Click here to see the Proclamation. Thank you MTOID!
