MILLCREEK PHILANTHROPIST AWARDED HONORARY PHD

MILLCREEK. Thirty-plus years ago, Dr. Narayani P. Singh asked his dad to help him build a girls school in rural India. Reflecting centuries-old tradition that boys come first, his dad asked, "Why would you ever want to teach girls?"

Using his own funds and friends' donations, Dr. Singh built a small building on land that, after much discussion, he'd convinced his father to donate. Dr Singh's dad even became the school's first principal, leading 120 girls in grades 6-11.

The Gramyanchal Mahila Vidyapeeth (GMV) school in rural Ganga Pur, India, has grown to almost 3,000 students studying at levels ranging from kindergarten to post-college graduate degrees. The school's mission is to "empower rural girls in India by providing a high-quality education, with qualified teachers, at a cost their rural families can afford."

Many years ago, local Millcreek resident Arline Hawkins Ockey caught the bug to help these girls. Ever since, she has been providing scholarships for village girls who cannot afford even the small fees the GMV charges.

"I have a very strong conviction that children need to read and be exposed to good literature. I firmly believe that girls should be educated. I'm very impressed with what these girls do, and with the subjects they take -- math, engineering, and more. I'm amazed at what they do."

-- Arline Hawkins Ockey

Mrs. Ockey raised six kids in the Mt. Olympus area of Millcreek. She has been active in local politics, and served as the drama director for her church. She loves working with children and young people. With Mrs. Ockey's help, many many young women in India have been able to take a wide range of classes, become educated, and create better lives for themselves and their families.

Last week, the GMV awarded Mrs. Ockey an Honorary Doctorate for her contributions. In a congratulatory letter, Mayor Jeff Silvestrini told her, "You are an inspiration and role model to those around you. Your dedication to mentoring young people is evident in your receiving this esteemed commendation." He went on to tell Mrs. Ockey that Millcreek was proud to call her one of our own.

OPEN HOUSE WEDS OCT 23

PROJECT OVERVIEW

The cities of Holladay and Millcreek plan to improve 3900 South from 2300 East to Wasatch Blvd. The project aligns with the community's vision for 3900 South to create a safe and aesthetically pleasing corridor that is accommodating for all motorists and pedestrians.

The project leverages $8.7 million in grants obtained from Salt Lake County and the federal government and will include a full depth reconstruction of 3900 South. The project includes the addition of curb and gutter, sidewalks, and enhanced UTA bus stops. A bike lane will be added on both sides of the corridor that will merge into shared lanes at each intersection.

Pedestrian safety improvements include a new HAWK signal at Birch Dr. and an overhead flashing beacon at 3100 East. Construction is anticipated to begin in 2020

PUBLIC OPEN HOUSE

Join us at a Public Open House on Wednesday, Oct. 23, from 5 to 7 p.m. at Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 2500 E. and 3900 S., to learn more about the planned improvements and next steps. City representatives will be available to answer questions.

POTENTIAL PROPERTY IMPACTS

As part of this project, minor property acquisitions and temporary construction easements along the corridor will be necessary. To learn more about potential impacts to your property, please come to the open house or contact the project team at 801-509-6639 or email 3900southproject@gmail.com

Nightmare on 23rd Halloween Dance

MILLCREEK. You would expect dimmed lights and blaring music at a Halloween dance, but at this unique dance the lights won't be dimmed, and there will be ear-plugs handed out at each entrance to the gym! The Millcreek Youth Council and Jean Massieu School for the Deaf and Blind (JMS) have partnered to bring a dance to Millcreek that will welcome all students in Millcreek -- blind, deaf, seeing, and hearing. After many months of preparation, their Nightmare on 23rd stomp will be held on Wednesday, October 23rd!

This dance will be accommodating to all, especially focusing on the students from JMS. Many of these students travel long commutes to get to school, coming from as far as Ogden, and board at the school from Monday through Friday. At JMS dances, the lights are kept at a level where you can see clearly so that deaf individuals can still communicate by sign language. The music is also turned up to an heightened level so that deaf individuals can feel the vibrations. Hearing individuals will be given ear plugs for their protection.

All of the ASL programs from the schools in the surrounding area have been invited, but any and all students in the area are welcome to attend! Both groups hope for a large turnout and know this will be a great opportunity to get to know other students who may be different from themselves.
