"The City's Economic Development team is surveying our business community to assess needs during this time and working to connect them to applicable state and federal resources as they develop. We are a city with many small businesses, and we will be doing all we can to ensure that they continue for years to come," said Mayor Silvestrini.

Millcreek is in close contact with state, federal, and county authorities to coordinate our response to this emergency. We will have more news on these matters as more information is available.

At this point, two stimulus packages including $8.3 billion in funding have been passed by the White House and Congress and further actions are under consideration. Mayor Silvestrini has been in contact with Senator Romney and Congressman Ben McAdams to discuss collaborative efforts to:

- Provide financial help to small businesses (500 employees or fewer) by offering guaranteed SBA loans with forgiveness to those businesses that stay on their feet while maintaining employment.
- Offer loans to larger businesses that help with the national infrastructure and the maintenance of our national security (such as airlines), with the expectation that these loans will be paid back.
- Reduce individuals' cash flow burden by delaying April 15th tax payments without a penalty or interest.
- Provide payments to families to help with the financial strain the virus is placing on them.

Yesterday the Small Business Administration approved an Emergency Declaration that will allow qualifying small businesses to apply for low interest federal disaster loans. Information can be found on the SBA website.

City Hall remains open for business. However, we encourage residents and businesses to contact us by phone or electronically if possible or to use the city's online facilities and resources. Governor Herbert has issued an executive order to allow for more electronic public meetings to facilitate this change in meeting protocols. (See below for information on how to virtually attend our public meetings).

We have had many residents asking if they can be of help. You may have neighbors who need help but are reluctant to ask for help. Please consider offering assistance by filling out and dropping a form on neighboring porches. You can download a form here. Also, see below for opportunities the Rotary Club of Millcreek has made available.

This is a new situation for all of us, and we urge patience and calm. Remember to practice hand washing and good hygiene, maintain social distancing, avoid all unnecessary trips and vacations, and heed all the precautions outlined by the CDC.

NOTICE

In light of COVID-19 (Coronavirus), Millcreek invites you to make use of the following tools designed to serve the public and reduce public interaction:

- Much of your business with the city can be done online, such as applying for business licenses and building permits.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR PATIENCE AND UNDERSTANDING.

OUR WATER SERVICE IS SAFE

MILLCREEK. Salt Lake City Public Utilities has advised the City that it has implemented a continuity of operations plan to ensure the continuance of water service to all its customers, including Millcreek residents and businesses. Employee succession and project prioritization have been established to make sure essential functions are covered in the event of staffing shortages. Additionally, Salt Lake City Mayor Erin Mendenhall's emergency proclamations include a direction that water service will not be shut off for non-payment of Salt Lake City Public Utilities bills during the term of the proclamation (30 days, as may be extended by the Salt Lake City Council).

Don't Overwhelm Medical Services

Feeling sick? Before you go to the doctor...

- Call to receive instructions before visiting a hospital or clinic.
- Consider utilizing a telemedicine service.

??? Healthy, but have questions or concerns?

- DO NOT visit a healthcare facility—“worried well” individuals are flooding healthcare providers with COVID-19 concerns, and exhausting health care resources for those who are truly in need.
- Call 1-800-456-7707 with questions or concerns.

HIGHLAND DRIVE RE-STRIPING PROJECT UPDATE

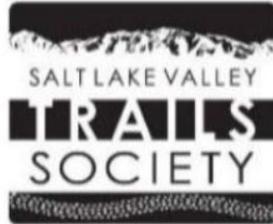

MILLCREEK. Millcreek has determined that it will go ahead and temporarily re-stripe Highland Drive from 3300 South north to the Salt Lake City boundary as a test to determine if three lanes (with one being a center turn lane) will make this residential/commercial corridor safer without detrimental traffic delays.

However, Millcreek will delay the project until next year. While Salt Lake City intends to participate, it has not yet worked the change into its road projects. To avoid a lane-drop at the boundary line, Millcreek will wait until Salt Lake City is ready.

Millcreek's decision came after reviewing the data provided by an independent study and considering the public input received at open houses and Council meetings, and through emails.

An Important Message for the Mountain Biking Community from the Forest Service and the Salt Lake Valley Trails Society

NOW HEAR THIS!*

1. Give each other space. We recommend a MINIMUM 2 bike lengths between trail users. We know that you will do better than that, you will do your best and still have fun. Air fives, posts and comments are great ways to appreciate the radness.
2. Keep it to yourself. Don't share bicycles, helmets, gloves, water bottles, snacks, whisky flasks, post-ride beers, vaping devices or smokes with your friends. If you need to loan a pump, tube or tool to someone, have them keep it until they can properly sanitize it
3. Take it down a notch. Hospitals, ambulances and first responders are under tremendous stress. Work on something fun and simple, like manuals, instead of eyeing up that big gap you've wanted to hit.
4. Ride to ride. Putting your bike in/on your car to ride your bike has always been less than ideal. Riding to trails keeps you fit, outdoors, away from gas/charging stations and auto accidents.
5. Go before you go. Lots of trailheads and trail areas don't have restrooms and nobody wants to clean those that do. Before you ride, take a minute to relieve yourself.
6. It's snot cool. It's never nice, but now blowing your mouth, lungs or nose out in the vicinity of others is dangerous to them and will diminish your opportunities to ride with others. Carry wipes or get a long, long, long way away from people and trail with your face aimed at and close to the ground.
7. Ride the couch. If you are sick, in any way consistent with Covid-19 symptoms, please stay home and get well so that we see you on the trail again, soon.
8. Make believe. Pretend that you are already sick and those other trail users are your best friends. It might be true.

9. Have a stash. Keep some sanitizing wipes, a spray bottle of isopropyl and/or disinfecting spray handy. even in your pack Your trail using friends will appreciate that you are wise and caring.

10. Look out for others. Parents! You need to talk to your children and encourage over-adherence to these and other protocols. We are all in this together, so education, encouragement and calling out others are good tactics. Practice your heckling skills for use during cyclocross season or against those younger and more talented than you.

*We are a bunch of trail loving MTBers in Salt Lake County trying to ensure the safety of our communities. Though we have tried to present the best and most current info possible, you need to stay abreast of current practices and can do so through the Center for Disease Control or your local health department. Happy Trails!
