Millcreek Eases Outdoor Dining Rules and Regulations

MILLCREEK. Mayor Jeff Silvestrini issued a directive this week announcing measures to assist Millcreek's restaurants and food establishments during the COVID-19 emergency pandemic. For the duration, restaurants and fast food establishments may now utilize landscaped areas and parking areas for outdoor dining.

To participate, each establishment must meet all applicable requirements of the Utah Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control and the requirements of the Salt Lake County Health Department. Those measures include:

- No food or beverage preparation outdoors; only dining;
- No food or beverage storage outdoors;
- Indoor restroom access must be provided; portable toilets are prohibited;
- Pets are not allowed in outdoor dining areas unless the Restaurant has or obtains a "Paws on the Patio" permit; and
- Dining may not encroach on a public right-of-way.

"We have closed several of our tables inside our restaurant to abide by social distancing standards," said Julie Hunt, owner of Lettuce and Ladles, a Millcreek restaurant located at 23rd East and 33rd South. "Having options to move more of our tables outside will allow us to serve more customers while still being safe," she said. "Thank you, Millcreek!"

The City has also launched an interactive map to help residents find out which restaurants are open for dine-in or take-out. Click here and type in your address or click on an area of the map to see the open restaurants nearby.

Millcreek was the first city in the state to allow delayed business license payments and suspend temporary sign ordinances so that businesses could announce that they were open. We continue to look for innovative ways to help our community's businesses.

Musings on what Millcreek's City Center might look like someday.

Seven Big Updates on the Millcreek City Center

MILLCREEK. The City has been working for some time on creating a vibrant City Center between Highland Drive and 1300 East to the north of 3300 South. Not only will this be an amazing place to live, work, and play, but it is an important part of the City's economic development strategy to strengthen our tax base for decades to come.

At the heart of the new city center is a four-acre linear park and plaza—our new town square— which Millcreek residents suggested and we are now calling "Millcreek Commons."

1 - $500,000 STATE GRANT WON FOR ICE RIBBON CONSTRUCTION.

A crown jewel of Millcreek Commons will be an ice ribbon winding through the plaza that will attract skaters throughout the cooler months. As the big winner of the State of Utah's Outdoor Recreation Grant this year, Millcreek has just been awarded $500,000 to use towards the construction of the ice ribbon.

2 - MASTER PLANNING FOR PHASE 1 NEARING COMPLETION.

Working with EPG Design's award-winning planning and landscape architecture team, we are nearing completion of master planning the park and plaza. The vibrant Commons will have activities year-round, including the aforementioned ice ribbon, and be surrounded by retail shops and restaurants, with residential units above them. Construction documents for the park and plaza are now being prepared.

3 - FORTY-SIX PROPERTIES ACQUIRED. Over the past ten months, Millcreek has acquired 46 properties in arms-length transactions to make way for the park and plaza. While making sure sellers got a fair price for their property, Millcreek was also frugal with the limited funds available. The properties Millcreek now owns include the soon-to-be relocated Plowgian Auto Repair property. "We are so appreciative of the way Mayor Silvestrini and his team have worked with us through this," said Jeff Plowgian, business owner. "Although it is difficult to move, thanks to city help we will be in a much better situation in our new location." Plowgian Auto's new site on 4031 S. Highland Drive will open up in June.

4 - ALL SPECIAL ZONES NOW IN PLACE.

- The City Council has approved a City Center Overlay Zone to require quality developments in this area.
- The area is qualified under U.S. law as "Opportunity Zone" (one of only 46 in Utah), where new investments can be eligible for preferential tax treatment.
- As of July 1st, we will be incorporating into Millcreek a portion of Salt Lake City that jutted into the middle of the city center.
- The City has designated the center as a Community Reinvestment Area (CRA)—a tool the state of Utah gives communities to capture new taxes generated in an area for community good for 20 years. A $20 million dollar bond was issued in 2019 to acquire properties and construct the Millcreek Common. The plan calls for making 100% of the bond payments with money generated by new economic development, without touching the City's General Fund, i.e., your tax dollars.

5 - ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES COMPLETED. Phase 1 and, where needed, Phase 2 environmental studies have been completed on the area. Geotechnical studies have been completed to specifically locate earthquake fault lines in the area to keep habitable buildings away from those in the plans. This spring, the technical engineers and scientists from Terracon Consultants have completed the required asbestos studies. This was paid for by a grant from the Environmental Protection Agency and Salt Lake County's brownfields program. In early summer, asbestos mitigation will begin, followed by building demolitions and site preparations.

6 - FIRST GROUNDBREAKING OCCURRED. Ground was broken this spring on the first major development of the new City Center. The Richmond at Millcreek will be a mixed-use building on the corner of Villa Vista Avenue and Richmond Avenue (in the old parking lot of the Villa Theater, west of Adib's Rug Gallery). When completed, the new structure will house 328 residential units and 13,000 square feet of street-level retail. The building is a joint effort of Atlas Ventures and Cottonwood Residential. "We have a number of incredible projects in the queue still coming to Millcreek's City Center, and this critical building is just the beginning," said Mayor Silvestrini, who conducted the virtual groundbreaking.

7- PLANS TAKING SHAPE FOR PHASE 2. As Millcreek Common begins to take shape, City leaders are working on public-private partnerships to jumpstart the economic revival of the area. What will that look like? Stay tuned here for more details. (Click here to sign up for this newsletter.)

HOUSING AND NUTRITION RESOURCES ARE AVAILABLE

MILLCREEK. Many of us and our neighbors and friends have suffered financially as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Here are some resources available to assist with housing and nutrition:

- Funding is available for rent relief, targeted for tenants who are ineligible for the enhanced unemployment benefits offered through the CARES act and the Utah Department of Workforce Services. Those eligible can apply for monthly payments directed to their landlords of up to $1,500. Tenants can contact Utah Community Action at 801-359-2444 to see if they qualify for assistance. Landlords can encourage their tenants to make the call.
- The Utah Housing Coalition and the Utah Apartment Association provide great resource information for both landlords and tenants. Click here for the Utah Housing Coalition. Click here for the Utah Apartment Association.

- Two food pantries are located in Millcreek: Mosaic Interfaith Ministries Pantry, 4392 South 900 East, 801.588.0139, and Jewish Family Service Pantry, 495 East 4500 South, 801.746.4334.
- The Utah Food Bank runs a food distribution every Saturday from 10:30 am to noon at the Millstream Ward Meeting House at 3400 South 1100 East. Just show up and volunteers will load groceries into your car.

We hope that these resources can help you and yours maintain financial stability and housing security as we move toward recovery in Millcreek.
