Arts Festival Celebrates the Baldwin Radio Factory's 100th Birthday

MILLCREEK. The Millcreek Arts Council will be celebrating the 100th birthday of the Historic Baldwin Radio Factory tomorrow, Saturday, August 27th from 11:00 AM to 10:00 PM. The Millcreek Arts Fest is free to the public and is

City Hall, 3330 S 1300 E or join virtually HERE located at the original factory building at 3474 S 2300 E. You can also access the festival from Evergreen Park (2266 E Evergreen Ave).

This historic building was built by Nathaniel Baldwin, inventor of the first modern headphones. The factory was originally powered by an electric generator on the Mill Creek, a device that Baldwin designed. The original high-tech hub in Utah, the Baldwin Factory once employed more than 300 people, including Philo T. Farnsworth, inventor of the television, and James B. Lansing, inventor and founder of JBL speakers.

Currently, Baldwin Factory is an art space that includes 20 art studios, a popular cafe, a yoga studio, and vintage furniture shop.

The Millcreek Arts Fest will have more than 60 artist booths, as well as two stages for live music and poetry, an interactive kid's zone, and a food truck court. This will be a celebration to remember!

The Food Waste Collection Pilot Program is Still Taking Sign-Ups— Don't Miss Your Chance

MILLCREEK. The Wasatch Front Waste & Recycling District (WFWRD) has partnered with Momentum Recycling to conduct a curbside food waste collection pilot program in East Mill Creek and Canyon Rim. The food waste is taken to Wasatch Resource Recovery, Utah's first anaerobic digester, where it undergoes a process that converts your food waste into biogas used to heat homes. The left-over matter will be used to produce a bio-based fertilizer.

The pilot program began July 6th and will run until September 28th. After the pilot, Momentum Recycling will carry on the services for an additional fee charged separately from WFWRD. Interested in learning more about the service? Visit Momentum Recycling's website to learn more and to see if you are located in their service area.

YOU ARE INVITED. This game-style simulation will give you a first-hand look at what you will realistically be facing following a major disaster. A live scenario to teach you about the many agencies and partners you will be working with during a disaster recovery.

This "hands on" experiential-based learning tool is the perfect opportunity to teach you, your family, and your neighbors the importance of personal and family preparedness.

Little to no knowledge about disaster preparedness, response or recovery is needed for this simulation, so it's the perfect tool to introduce you to the wild and often hectic world of emergency response.

These events are only held by special arrangement so register today and take advantage of this amazing opportunity to be truly prepared.
