

Help Decide How Best to Connect Millcreek Through Trails and Sidewalks

Millcreek announces the development of a Sidewalks and Trails Master Plan! The new master plan seeks to enhance connectivity, address mobility limitations, promote active lifestyles, and foster a sense of community pride. Millcreek recently formed a technical advisory committee comprised of local government entities, private canal companies, members from each Community Council, and representatives from the Millcreek Planning Commission and City Council.

MILLCREEK WANTS YOUR FEEDBACK! Throughout the planning process

resident feedback and insight will be sought through a series of pop-up events and community meetings, including an interactive survey allowing residents to pin their ideas to specific locations in Millcreek. We invite you to share your thoughts, concerns, and vision for our sidewalks and trails.

Change can sometimes raise questions or concerns. Millcreek is committed to transparency and open communication. Updates and opportunities for dialogue will be provided to ensure that you are well informed and empowered to participate in the decision-making process. Stay tuned to our newsletter/website/social media for meeting schedule.

For more information about the Millcreek Sidewalks and Trails Master Plan, please contact Robert May at rmay@millcreekut.gov or Fred Lutze at flutze@millcreekut.gov.

Here's Millie!

MILLIE MILLCREEK

Milford and I were prepping our garden last weekend to make sure we get the most out of our watering and to protect the plant roots... which got me thinking about protecting ourselves and our community this time of year. It's so easy to get out of the habit of putting on sunscreen and making sure we're hydrated when we're coming out of a season of less outdoor activity.

After a day of garden prep our muscles sure were tight (we won't mention the tightness of my pants lately) so we did some stretches together. It was a good reminder to ease into more strenuous activities as the weather warms up and was a good reminder that I need to start seeing my trainer again. There are so many great gyms in Millcreek, large and small, plus all of the fun activities available at Millcreek Common.

We also need to protect our skin and bodies as the weather warms up. Make sure you make an appointment to see your dermatologist for a skin check, and put sunscreen on every day! Don't forget to stay hydrated in our beautiful high desert. Maybe even buy a new water bottle from one of our great outdoor retailers. Don't forget to decorate it with some cool stickers from the Public Market on the ground floor of Millcreek City Hall!

And since mulching is the topic that got me thinking about these things, let's not forget to protect our waterways by making sure green waste doesn't end up in storm drains. Water that goes into storm drains goes directly into our waterways without treatment. Protect the marine life in those habitats by composting your green waste or putting it in the appropriate waste container.

Have fun out there enjoying our beautiful city!

XOXOXO, Millie

MAYOR'S MESSAGE JEFF SILVESTRI Working Hard for Infrastructure Grant Funding and Appropriations

This year, members of the city council and I, working with our capable staff, have been successful in applying and lobbying for nearly $40 million in grant funding and congressional appropriations to enable Millcreek to update and improve our infrastructure. These funds are specific to the listed projects and cannot be moved or shifted for other uses. Some of the many of the things we have accomplished:

TRANSPORTATION - $5.7 MILLION. In the past legislative session, we secured a state transportation appropriation of $1.2 million to enable Millcreek to continue to improve 2000 East, north of 3300 South to the Salt Lake City border. This is in addition to the $3 million for this project we secured in a Transportation Improvement Project grant from the state through the Wasatch Front Regional Council last year. We also secured an additional $1.5 million for this project from the Surface Transportation Program to reach the necessary total of $5.7 million to fully fund this project. We will now complete the necessary engineering and acquisition of any additional, required right-of-way to permit this work to hopefully be completed Fall 2025 to summer of 2026. This project will pipe the irrigation canal, rebuild the roadway, add bike lanes, and ensure ADA-compliant sidewalks on both sides of the street so that the north

Millcreek Promise Scholars Awarded, Afterschool Artists Honored

The Millcreek Promise Program, in conjunction with high school counselors at Cottonwood, Olympus, and Skyline high schools, selected two students from each high school to be Millcreek Promise Scholars. In April, each student was given a Certificate of Recognition and a $1,000 scholarship for their exceptional scholastic work.

COTTONWOOD HIGH SCHOOL:

STEEVEN VALDIVA moved with his family to Millcreek four years ago and has enjoyed the calm and quiet neighborhood that has everything that he needs within a short distance. He has enjoyed learning to ice skate on Millcreek Common, celebrating several events in the area, as well as going to Millcreek Gardens. Steeven is an active member of our Millcreek community, having organized and worked on several service projects, including helping translate for parent teacher conferences and running a trunk or treat activity. Steeven plans to study Civil Engineering with a minor in Nuclear Engineering.

SAMANTHA VANCE is a life-long resident of Millcreek, and has many special memories connected to the city. She has enjoyed growing up in the environment that Millcreek provides and says that it will “always hold a place in [her] heart.” Samantha is also a great volunteer in our community, including a project she led out to help older residents record their life stories to be passed down to their kids and grandkids. She heard stories of life during World War II, how people fell in love, and many more that are now preserved thanks to her efforts. Samantha plans to pursue a course of study in the medical field and hopes to ultimately end up back in Millcreek.

OLYMPUS HIGH SCHOOL:

ALAN SALINAS-BARRERA says that the best thing about living in Millcreek is the people that live here. He loves that his neighbors recognize him and that they never fail to wave and say hello to him. He also enjoys Millcreek Common and the large sense of community that surrounds him. He remembers feeling shocked at the large crowd that gathered last summer on the 4th of July to watch the drone show on the Common, and the sense of pride in his community that seeing this brought to him. Alan has contributed to the community through school club service activities and plans to continue to serve as a Millcreek citizen in the future where he has the goal of one day becoming a homeowner in Millcreek. Alan plans on studying Engineering in aerospace.

SARAH CUNDICK says that living in Millcreek has been a good fit for her and that Millcreek’s focus on being “Connected by Nature” rings true to her. She has taken full advantage of our natural landscape, exploring the canyons and canoeing the Jordan River. She notes that through these adventures, she is able to connect to other people in a more genuine way. Sarah has been an active member of Millcreek ever since she heard of it becoming a city, from involving herself in community events to joining Youth Council and working for Millcreek Common, where she helped organize food drives, park clean-ups, and Secret Santas. Sarah plans to study Chemistry and Environmental Science, with the goal of pursuing a degree in law to work in Environmental Law.

SKYLINE HIGH SCHOOL:

ANH KHOA LE says that one of the best things about Millcreek is the thriving community and commonality of people who live here. He said that moving to Millcreek “changed the narrative for [him] that [his] neighbors were strangers,” and that they became people that welcomed him and his family with open arms. Anhkhoa has served in the community as a member of Youth Council, where he both served the community but also increased his level of civic participation. He has contributed to the community through helping run festivals, clean up parks, and helping plan the Skyline Super Reunion. Anhkhoa plans to study Finance with the goal of returning to Millcreek to consult with nonprofits and local businesses.

ILENA DANG has for a long time been drawn to the idea of creating community spaces that bring people together. That is why her favorite part of Millcreek is Millcreek Common and City Hall, which she says she recognizes as having fulfilled that ideal. She has enjoyed the friendships she has formed through using these spaces. Ilena has volunteered for the Learning for Life after school program, where she implemented lesson plans and led discussions among children and youth that help them to be curious, creative, and take on leadership roles. Ilena plans to study Political Science and Public Policy, with the goal of working on state-level policy to enact and drive positive social change.

WILLIAM PENN ELEMENTARY STUDENTS

The second group recognized that evening were students from the after school program at William Penn Elementary. The Asian Association of Utah conducts a number of after school programs in Millcreek that help our students. An important one of their programs is being conducted this year at William Penn Elementary. Serving children in grades K-5, the program offers academic tutoring, enrichment activities, an after school snack, and Friday field trips. In conjunction with the program, Millcreek Promise, working with community volunteers, provided art supplies and art experiences. The kids' weaving projects will be displayed on the second floor of City Hall (1330 E Chambers Ave) in the gallery area through the next few months. Mayor Silvestrini thanked The Asian Association for supporting Millcreek children and for providing great after school support. We thank our young artists for making our City Hall beautiful.

Connecting to Nature on Earth Day at Millcreek Common

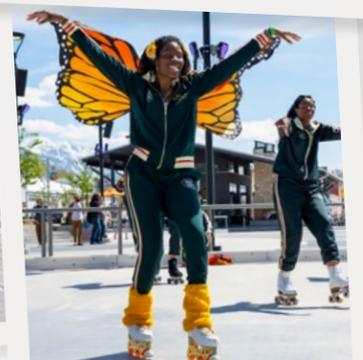

On Saturday, April 20th, Millcreek Common unveiled a new art installation in honor of Earth Day. The life-sized moose statue was made with 100% recycled and donated plastic and steel materials, keeping with this year's international earth day theme, "Planet vs. Plastics."

were brought in by the Jordan River Commission. The materials were then transformed into the art by local artists Jesse Draper and Fyffe, with the help of local after school programs from James E. Moss and William Penn Elementary Schools, the Sunnyvale Center, Evergreen Jr. High, and Olympus High School who came out to help on the sculpture during two field trips, where they also learned about reduce, reuse, recycle. Thanks to donors who made the day great: Servpro and the Jordan River Commission.

The event was made even better with a performance of roller skating butterflies, and an artist painting the moose on the city dumpster. Inside City Hall, kids enjoyed going into the Pollinator Palooza tent and interacting with real butterflies.

In the months prior to the event, several Millcreek businesses served as drop off locations for plastic bottles and materials to be collected. Additional plastic bottles

A Magical Resource Fair

The fair took place at Bud Bailey apartment complex, a low-income apartment complex that is run by Housing Connect that hosts several refugee families and other residents in need. Local nonprofits and other

Reminder to Millcreek Gardeners

It is June in Millcreek, gardens are beginning to produce, and surplus produce from Millcreek gardeners is being collected across the City!

If you have more garden vegetables, fruit, or herbs than you can use, please consider contributing that produce to the Millcreek collection site nearest to your home this summer. Produce is collected weekly on either Monday or Wednesday and is then taken on Tuesday and Thursday to four terrific Millcreek organizations which distribute it to their clients. Recipients of the donated produce are folks who lack garden space to raise their own fresh food, or who lack time or money to access fresh produce elsewhere.

We all feel better when we eat "fresh," and most gardeners hate to see the fruits (and vegetables!) of their labor go to waste. Join us in contributing produce you grow but cannot consume yourself. Share the bounty, and build our community, and reduce food waste.

Thanks to Millcreek residents willing to host a collection site, Waste Less Solutions for picking up and delivering produce every week, and participating community agencies willing to distribute the produce to their clientele.

To identify the Millcreek collection site closest to your home, as well as the schedule for that site, please email your address to: mldraper@millcreekut.gov. We will reply with information that will let you be a part of sharing the harvest this summer.

groups tabled at the fair while Millcreek Promise and other local businesses provided crafts and activities for kids to enjoy. Food was provided as well as an opportunity drawing held, and several prize packages given away to this community.

Kids enjoyed the magician and had fun with hula hoops while their parents had the opportunity to talk to experts about resources available to them.

MILLCREEK OFFICER OF THE MONTH

OFFICER SCOTT WILBERGER

During the month of March 2024, Sgt. Wilberger not only attended to his regular duties as a patrol sergeant but continually went above and beyond.

In the absence of the graveyard sergeant on the cover graveyard shift, Sgt. Wilberger, with no hesitation moved from his normal Tuesday-Friday shift to the graveyard cover shift which entails 13-14 hours shifts over the weekend. After willingly changing his shift for the good of the department, Sgt. Wilberger again changed shifts to a "hybrid" shift to provide supervision to not only the cover graveyard shift, but the afternoon shift and the traditional graveyard shift as well.

Further, during the month Sgt. Wilberger has not only changed his schedule and hours for the betterment of the precinct, but handled scheduling, timecards, training, and vacation requests and staffing issues for not only his shift, but for other sergeants shifts while those sergeants were on vacation.

Sgt. Wilberger leads by example and sets a very high standard for the officers under his watch. He is very attentive to his officer's needs, the needs of the public and the needs of the UPD. For his professionalism, attention to detail and willingness to sacrifice what's best for him, for what is best for everyone, Sgt. Scott Wilberger is the Millcreek Precinct March Officer of the Month.

 My daughter Celina, who lives with cerebral palsy, is full of life, love, laughter, and an exquisite appetite. She was granted a wish from the Make-a-Wish Foundation in the summer of 2007 to fly to New York City and taste the best the city had to offer. As a family, we had a life changing trip. The spark of So Cupcake was ignited!
 Upon returning home, we began to create our own delicious cupcake recipes that soon became the foundation of So Cupcake. In February 2008, we opened So Cupcake in honor of Celina.
 So Cupcake is a walk-in bakery that also provides catering for all kinds of occasions, special order cakes, and a place to host special events.

POLICY MAKER FORUM

Laurie Stringham
SALT LAKE COUNTY COUNCIL CHAIR

Each month, Millcreek invites a local official to share their thoughts and concerns.

I believe government closest to the people is government at its best. The work your local governments do are very practical and pragmatic, like filling potholes and caring for senior citizens. I have served on the Salt Lake County Council for 3 years and represent the County at-large and this year is my 27th year as an elected official.

It always amazes me how integrated county government is in our day-to-day lives. I serve on the WFWRD Board, which manages much of Salt Lake County's garbage removal and Salt Lake County oversees landfill management. Salt Lake County works closely with the Jordan Valley and Central Utah Water Conservation Districts, which brings fresh clean water to your town. We provide contracted services, such as snow removal and road repair to many local communities. We also support programs that make life better for those who are struggling or just looking to enrich their lives. Examples include Youth Services, Homeless Services, programs supporting new mothers, supporting the arts, recreation, trails, and parks. Public safety and criminal prosecution make up the bulk of the Salt Lake County Budget. These offices are dedicated to keeping our communities safe and justice served.

As Salt Lake County is required to balance their budget annually, I have been impressed as a taxpayer by how well our County's revenues have been managed by those maintaining our community assets. The County oversees hundreds of buildings and facilities, several parks, programs, and grants. As your County Councilmember, the budget is foremost on my mind all year long. I am actively looking for ways to streamline or improve any expense to make sure we're all getting the most from our tax dollars.

I invite you to join our weekly Salt Lake County Council Meetings on Tuesday afternoons via Facebook (<https://www.facebook.com/SLCoCouncil>) or live at the Salt Lake County Government Center, 2001 South State Street, Suite N2-800. Agendas and exact start times can be found on our website at <https://slco.org/council/agendas-minutes/>.

I am grateful for Millcreek City and the work they put into being an excellent community. I look forward to continuing to work with its officials and residents.

Please Keep City Roads Clear

It is the time of year when residents consider landscaping projects that may include deliveries of dirt, rocks, or sod. We know that for many the easiest way is to place supplies in the road in front of their homes. This can cause many problems, not only for the safety of drivers along the street but for the homeowner who ends up with a stop work order for not applying for a permit.

The city requires an encroachment permit any time anything is placed in the city right of way. If possible, supplies should be placed on a driveway or an area on the property but if the right of way must be used it is important to contact the city to discuss whether a permit is required.

It is also extremely important to consider safety concerns. A pile of dirt, gravel, or sod can become invisible at night to drivers and has been known to cause accidents. The city does not allow anything to be placed on the road overnight due to these concerns. An encroachment permit is required in most instances where all city requirements are outlined, and charges are based on the length of time needed.

Reflective cones or other markings should be placed to alert drivers to the hazard and it is important to clear everything from the street as quickly as possible.

During the winter months, from October 15th to April 15th, no encroachment permits are issued, and nothing can be placed in the road to allow for snowplowing operations.

Another important consideration is storm drains. Debris or mud cannot be allowed to get into city storm drains. These drains flow directly into our waterways and must be kept clear and clean. If anything is being placed near a storm drain, the drain must be covered, or a baffle must be placed to not allow debris to enter the storm drain.

If you are planning a project that requires use of the roadway and are unsure of how to proceed, contact the city Public Works department at 801-214-2700. Let's keep our roads clear and safe.

Offer Your Input On Water

Salt Lake City Department of Public Utilities (SLCDPU) is proposing its annual budget for approval by the Salt Lake City Council for Fiscal Year 2024-2025.

Most residents of Millcreek receive water from SLCDPU. As part of the proposed budget, SLCDPU is recommending increasing water rates. The proposed water rates include a 4% increase based on water usage and a rate stabilization fee.

In recent years, SLCDPU has experienced revenue losses resulting from decreased water use, and inflationary pressures affecting the costs to repair or replace aging infrastructure.

For more information about SLCDPU's proposed budget and rate increases, please visit: www.slco.gov/utilities/finance/2024-2025-budget/.

To share your feedback about this year's proposed budget and water rate increases, send an email to SLCDPUengagement@SLCGov.com or call SLCDPU's Customer Service team at 801-483-6900.

Millcreek residents are also invited to participate in the Salt Lake City Council budget hearing on June 4, 2024. Visit tinyurl.com/SLCFY25 for details about how to attend.

7 Factors To Consider When Fertilizing Your Lawn

Most of us love green grass. Besides using lots of water, one of the most common ways to get it is using fertilizer. When used correctly it can be a great tool, to keep grass healthy. But, when levels of these nutrients become too high, due to excess fertilizing or waste entering streams, they can have detrimental effects on water quality and stream ecosystems. Nutrient enrichment is a big problem in streams, ponds, rivers and lakes.

and then dies off
4. The dead algae sinks to the bottom of water bodies and undergoes decomposition

NUTRIENT POLLUTION AND LANDSCAPE MAINTENANCE

Nutrient pollution occurs from an excess of nitrogen and phosphorus in the environment and is a growing problem. This pollution impacts people's health, our environment, opportunities for recreation, and tourism.

FERTILIZER

Fertilizers increase nitrogen and phosphorus levels and can have detrimental effects on water quality and stream ecosystems.

RAIN WASHES AWAY FERTILIZER

Avoid using fertilizer during the summer months and when rain is in the forecast.

USE JUST ENOUGH

Overwatering can carry pollutants through storm drains directly into our streams, rivers, and lakes.

KEEP IT NATIVE

Native plants require minimal amounts of artificial fertilizer.

THINK BIG

Consider the potential and lasting effects when fertilizing lawns and gardens.

SALT LAKE COUNTY STORMWATER COALITION
WE ALL LIVE DOWNSTREAM
stormwatercoalition.org

Eutrophication is a vicious chain reaction:
1. Extra nitrogen and phosphorus expedites the growth of phytoplankton and algae growth in a water body, known as an algae "bloom"
2. The "bloom" overtakes other natural plant species and interferes with fish and micro-organism habitats
3. The "bloom" can accelerate the growth of invasive species and reduce biodiversity. The "bloom" uses the temporarily available nutrients

4. The dead algae sinks to the bottom of water bodies and undergoes decomposition
5. Bacteria in decomposition converts the previously used nutrients into inorganic forms, which are toxic to humans, fish, and wildlife
6. Decomposition also use great amounts of dissolved oxygen, which in turn, suffocates and kills fish and organisms in water bodies
7. Decomposition clouds water and can induce a foul smelling odor. Substantial human additions to nitrogen and phosphorus levels in water bodies can turn once-vibrant ecosystems into toxic dead zones.
 Consider the potential and lasting effects when fertilizing your lawn or garden. Also consider using native plants, which require minimal amounts of artificial fertilizer and water.

half of 2000 East matches the project currently underway to the south of 3300 South.
TRAILS - $12 MILLION. Millcreek is slated to receive $10 million from the Utah Department of Transportation Trails Division to complete the first phase of a shared multi-use path for bikes and pedestrians along 3900 South from the Jordan River to West Temple. This funding has been recommended to the Transportation Commission and we will soon know if that appropriation has been finalized. UDOT has also committed $2 million in funds from the Highway Safety Improvement Program (HSIP). We have asked Congress for an additional $5 million in Congressionally Directed Spending to complete more of this project. This project is a partnership with our neighbors in South Salt Lake and Holladay and will connect into improvements planned by Taylorsville and West Valley, west of the Jordan River. Eventually there will be a protected, shared-use path (bike lanes east of 2300 East) from westside I-215 to eastside I-215. 3900/4100 South is one of the rare major east-west routes in the valley which is not complicated by an I-15 interchange, making it an ideal route for bicycle commuters and a great way to get to the Jordan River Trail or the Canyons.
BIKE/PEDESTRIAN PATHS - $4.5 MILLION. We received $4.5 million from the Regional Transportation Choice Fund, administered by Salt Lake County, to construct a shared-use path on Wasatch Boulevard for bikes and pedestrians. This will run from 3800 South to the city's southern border with Holladay, making it a safer route for pedestrians and bicyclists. Holladay received funding for improved bike lanes on its section of Wasatch Boulevard south of 5400 South, so a major section of this frequently used bikeway will be safer from 3800 to 6200 South.

FLOODING - $18.2 MILLION. Great news for our Mount Olympus neighborhood and for the prospect of rebuilding UFA Station 112 on Jupiter Drive. Because the creek in Neffs Canyon floods from time to time, FEMA has designated large areas of Olympus Cove as part of a flood plain, i.e., at high risk of flooding (particularly debris flow or "mudslide"). FEMA's expansion of the flood plain a few years ago has prevented Station 112 from being rebuilt and has burdened hundreds of residents with limitations upon remodeling, rebuilding, and refinancing their homes. The flood plain designation has required many Olympus Cove residents to pay, collectively, tens of millions in federal flood insurance premiums.
 To solve the flooding issues, the city applied for a FEMA Flood Mitigation Assistance Grant to build a debris retention structure in Neffs Canyon and underground water conveyance infrastructure from the canyon to Mill Creek. FEMA denied the application, but the city appealed. We recently won that appeal. That means the city will receive a grant in the amount of $15,788,250 for the project, which will make the neighborhood safer in the event of a catastrophic debris flow, allow us to rebuild UFA Station 112, and relieve the residents of the construction and financial burdens created by the flood plain designation.

 The FEMA grant will be augmented by a $2.4 million Congressionally Directed Spending appropriation that was passed in Congress this spring with the budget bill. That is a total of $18,188,250 we have raised for this project. The city will still need to scrape up $5.7 million for the required 25% federal match and we are hard at work on that.
SIDEWALKS - $376,000. We received $376,000 in grant funding to improve pedestrian safety near the intersection of 2700 East near Upland Dr. We will install crosswalk and sidewalk improvements there to make the walking route for kids attending Upland Terrace Elementary and Wasatch Jr. High schools safer.
 That's a total nearly $40 million in grants and appropriations for transportation and infrastructure improvements in less than a year for our city. We are proud that our hard work is paying off for Millcreek residents. It makes all our meetings and trips to the state Capitol and Washington D.C. worth the effort. Thanks also to our U.S. Representatives and Senators as well as to our state and county legislators who have supported Millcreek and helped us make these future improvements possible.
Much of the transportation funding is generated from gas taxes already allocated to improve infrastructure that would have been spent elsewhere had Millcreek not been the successful applicant.*
